THIS NEXT important event on opening The shield rack above the dining room will be the announcement during the week of the engagement of one of the prettiest young girls of Honolulu. They who well know that the show set up representing this announcement will be on the spot to hear the interesting news. The announcement will come as no surprise to the engagement has been kept secret.

University Club Ball.

The week just closed has been the most brilliant of the season and marked as it was by the University Club ball on Friday night it will be some time before it will be rivaled. The members of the University Club have won honors as hosts on former occasions but the mention given just preceding outshone all previous entertainments and can well be designated as the most brilliant ball of the season of 1912.

George William Whitney was chairman of the general entertainment committee and it was due to his efforts and the able committees that served under him that the ball was such a success. Mr. Albert Atcheson who had sole charge of the decorations deserves unstinted praise for the originality he showed and his artistic ability and ingenuity in planning decorations can not be questioned. Many elaborate entertainments have occurred in this club-house but the Seventh Annual Ball shown last night excelled in beauty and brilliancy all other entertainments. Prior to the ball an reception was held between the hours of nine and ten. The following society women received with Mr. Walter Dillingham, the president of the club—Mrs. Montgomery Macrae, Mrs. Walter Cowles, Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Miss Arthur Debins, Miss J. R. Gath, Mrs. Alan Newell and Mrs. Monte Gertley. The party received in the large drawing room which was exquisitely decorated with American beauty roses and mandarin fern. After paying their respects to the preceding party the guests of other parties participated in the dancing as performed on the large platform or in private in the quiet little rooms in the temple wing. The hall floor had been transformed into a wide garden with paths of blossoming trees. The sweet-sounding gongs and vine curtains the windows and doors and festoons of the same vine concealed the chandeliers. The electric lights in their coverings of rose pink, represented roses nestling among the gold beads. The corsage and sleeves were of gold lace. The tonic was edged with a fringe of gold and crystal beads. Mrs. Sando's gown of French mouseline brocade, trimmed with silver lace and veiled with white chiffon, was much admired. The belt and stole was of striped chiffon. The corsage was finished with beautiful pink rose. Mrs. A. Hocking looked very handsome in a gown of vistoria charmeuse satin draped with net, applied with arrowcote ribbon. Mrs. Harold Castle wore a cloth of gold with diamond lace. Mrs. George Puter's costume was of chiffon satin with overdress of pearls and gold trimming. Mrs. George Cooke wore white duckie lace over white satin with emerald-green trimmings. Mrs. George Carter wore a black Egyptian embroidered gown with deep silk fringe. Mrs. Harry Lewis' gown was of cloth of gold with gold fringe, diamond and amethyst ornaments. Mrs. William Williamson looked beautiful in a red-embroidered chiffon over red satin. Mrs. Arthur Hodges looked stunning in black chiffon with trimmings of Egyptian silver and silver fringe. Mrs. Harry Hepburn wore white cheetah silk heavily embroidered. Mrs. Wallace Farrington was handsone in white satin with an overdress of emboldened chiffon. Mrs. Thelma Parker wore a cream satin with white lace overdress. Mrs. C. W. Case Deering was lovely in white duckie satin with an overdress of watermelon pink. Miss Alice Cooke looked girlish and pretty in a white satin overdress of tomato red, with diamond ornaments. Mrs. Harold Dillingham was handsome in white satin with an overdress of gold lace.

On the eve of St. Valentine Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mills Swanzy entertained at a dinner with covers for twelve. In the center of the table was a flora heart, composed of purple violets and pansies. The place cards were hand-painted valentines. The artificial light was produced by numerous silver candlesticks, holding candles shaded by amber satin shades, covered with a filigree work of silver. After dinner, the diversion for the evening was "bridge." Following is a list of the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Cropp of Germany, Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman, Major and Mrs. Edward Julius Timberlake, Mrs. Harlow, wife of Captain Harlow of the U. S. S. California, Colonel Benson of Leilehua, Mr. Palmer and Major de Sauleilles who are guests at the Moana Hotel.

Among the notable passengers on the transport Sherman was Major Maullin, Inspector General of the U. S. Army, who is on a tour of inspection to the Philippines.
